■セミナー概要 Lecture Outline

“Change the world: Challenges by the business sector to co-create a sustainable future”

Since the adoption of the SDGs we've seen very promising momentum all over the world. The SDGs have shifted from the UN General Assembly to communities around the planet. In line with the interlinkages of the SDGs, we see the Member States walking the talk in terms of national coordination for its implementation. However, our assessment shows that the pace of progress to date is insufficient to fully meet the ambition of SDGs. We must say, if the benefits of achieving SDGs are enormous, unfortunately, the costs of failing to do so are equally staggering. During the discussion with KGU students, I look forward to developing together innovative ideas to make a quantum leap to make our future sustainable.
