“Thinking of Democracy

-A Case Study of the Arab Spring in Tunisia”

The Arab Spring is known to be revolutionary democratization of the Arab States, which started as the “Jasmine Revolution” in Tunisia in 2011. The democratization in Tunisia was a success case, which gave an impact to the other Arabic countries including Egypt. What was really the reason for Jasmine Revolution, how it happened and what kind of impact did this Tunisia model of revolutionary democratization give to the neighboring Arab states.

Was it really a democratization or a prelude to a different model of authoritarian regime?

As guest speaker former Ambassador Prof. Taga, who witnessed the Jasmine Revolution as Japanese Ambassador there will explain this symbolic case of Arab Spring and argue its significance followed by discussions with students.
